We honor all who served.
We remember all who made the ultimate sacrifice.

The Little Flag-Bearer—Among the many acts of heroism told of those engaged in the fight up the Arkansas River is that of a mere youth, a little boy, who was attached to Tappan's Arkansas regiment, and carried two mimic flags, one in each hand. The regiment was driven to the water's edge, and the enemy poured in a terrific volley, killing many of them, who fell into the river; and such as were not instantly killed met a watery grave. Among those struck was the little boy, who bore the flags. Giving one last hurrah, which was cut short by the ebbing flow of his young life, he waved the flags over his head, tottered into the river, and was seen no more. The incident, says the narrator, was witnessed by whole regiment that was crossing the river at the time, and not one member of it shed a tear at the sight.

A Thrilling Incident.—A. Z. Reeve, of the Iowa army, gives the following in a letter from German-town, Tenn., March 12, 1863:

“We have been here about six weeks, protecting the railroad. Col. Richardson, a rebel guerrilla, has been hovering in the vicinity for some time, capturing forage parties and tearing up the road wherever opportunity offered. When pursued, he retreats to the swamps, and his command, dispensing in small squads, generally evade all attempts to discover them. To make the matter worse, they frequently dress in Federal uniform.

On the morning of the 9th of this month, our regiment and the Fourth Illinois cavalry started out with a guide for the retreat of the guerrillas. Before we reached the rebel camp, the Sixth Illinois cavalry, with flying artillery attached, attacked the rebels from the opposite side, killed twenty-five of them, took some prisoners, and burned the camp and garrison equipage. In their headlong stampede, the rebels came well nigh running into our hands. While in hot pursuit, we came to the residence of one Robert C. Forbes, who, intrenching himself in the house, commenced firing on our flankers as they approached. The flankers then charged on the house, effected an entrance, and discovered that Forbes had taken shelter in an upper chamber. The desperate man was called upon to surrender, but refused. He had already killed one member of the Fourth Illinois cavalry, and had wounded another. He also had received a wound in his right arm, which disabled him to such an extent that he could not load his gun. His wound was received through a shot fired up through the floor. Still the desperate man refused to yield. As a last resort the house was set on fire. This compelled the man to come down, but he still obstinately refused to surrender. He was immediately surrounded by the exasperated soldiers, who refrained from shooting him on account of the certainty of shooting their comrades. Meanwhile the old man clubbed his gun, and although his arm was badly lubricated and bleeding, he ferociously kept the soldiers at bay. At length one of the officers ordered the soldiers opposite him to get away, and give him a chance “to shoot the old secession scoundrel.”

At these words the gun dropped from the old man’s hands, and he earnestly inquired:

“Is it possible? Have I been fighting Union soldiers all this time?”

“Of course we are Union men,” replied the officer.

“My God! Why didn’t I know this before?” said the old man in a voice of agony; “I am a Union man, too. I thought I was fighting Richardson’s guerrillas!”

The soldiers did not believe him at first, but in brief time he proved to them beyond all dispute that there was no counterfeit Unionism about him. He had been an incorruptible patriot during the war. At the outbreak of the rebellion he had been arrested by Confederate authority, and placed in chains. His crime consisted in telling the rebels that they were traitors, and deserved hanging. When Gen. Hurlbut passed through this part of the country, the old man joined him, but came back occasionally to see his family. He was on a brief furlough from the Federal army when the raid was made on his house. Richardson had sworn vengeance against him, and he had resolved never to be taken alive. The explanation came too late to save the house. It was consumed with all its contents. There was not a quilt left to defend the mother and children from the cold. They had fled from the burning building just in time to save their lives. It was a sad spectacle. The old man begged to be taken along with us. He told his wife to get to the Federal lines as soon as possible. A braver and truer man to his country does not exist than Robert C. Forbes. I gave the mother and children ten dollars in greenbacks and my blankets. The other soldiers contributed to relieve the distress of the family. Many sympathizing tears were shed by us all. I have not witnessed a scene so affecting since my enlistment.

Apocalypse.

“All hail to the Stars and Stripes!”

Luther C. Ladd.

Straight to his heart the bullet crushed,
Down from his breast the red blood gushed,
And o’er his face a glory rushed.

A sudden spasm rent his frame,
And in his ear there went and came
A sound as of devouring flame.

Which in a moment ceased, and then
The great light clasped his brows again,
So that they shone like Stephen’s, when Saul stood apart a little space,
And shook with shuddering awe to trace
God’s splendors settling o’er his face.

Thus, like a king, erect in pride,
Raising his hands to heaven, he cried,
“All hail the Stars and Stripes!” and died.

Died grandly; but before he fell, (O, blessedness ineffable!)
Vision apocalyptic

Was granted to him, and his eyes,
All radiant with glad surprise,
Looked forward through the centuries,

And saw the seeds that sages cast
In the world’s soil in cycles past,
Springing up and blossoming at the last;

Saw how the souls of men had grown,
And where the scythes of Truth had mown
Clear space for Liberty’s white throne;
Saw how, by Sorrow tried and proved,
The last dark stains had been removed
Forever from the land he loved;

Saw Treason crushed, and freedom crowned,
And clamorous faction gagged and bound,
Gasping its life out on the ground;
While over all his country’s slopes
Walked swarming troops of cheerful hopes,
Which evermore to broader scopes
Increased with power that comprehends
The world’s weal in its own, and bends
Self-needs to large, unselfish ends.

Saw how, throughout the vast extents
Of earth’s most populous continents,
She dropped such rare heart-affluence,
That, from beyond the farthest seas,
The wondering people thronged to seize
Her proffered pure benignities;
And how of all her trebled host
Of widening empires, none could boast
Whose strength or love was uppermost,
STATE NEWS

Continued...

Omaha, May 24—A lively skirmish took place in the Methodist general conference between those who favor and those who oppose the admission of women. It arose over a resolution introduced by Dr. Potts.

Dr. J.M. Buckley, is straining every nerve to shut the question out a long as possible.

Beatrice, May 25—The next meeting of the Nebraska Columbian Commission is to be held at Beatrice, Wednesday morning, June 1st, and the next subsequent meeting will be held at Grand Island. Said arrangement having been already determined upon.

Omaha, May 26—The waters of the Missouri river are receding rapidly, and are more than a foot lower than the point reached last Saturday. Reports from the upper Missouri river show that it is going down at all points and clear weather is the rule. The only danger now is from the numerous disease breeding pools that are left.

Omaha, May 26—The American Protective Association of Catholic-haters have a large sized scandal on their hands. The state deputy of this order in Nebraska, a Mr. Winspear, is accused of having received a bribe of $1,500 at the last election in order to make all the benighted members of that order vote for F. E. Moores for clerk of court.

Omaha, May 26—In Omaha the forces of the Proprietor of the Paxton hotel, Mr. Paxton and those of the landlord, Mr. Eastman, who rented the house are arrayed against each other. The landlord, it seems has not paid the rent due to the proprietor of the hotel and the latter proposes to foreclose the mortgage. Mr. Eastman refuses to leave the house.

The Laymen Win.

Result of a Big Fight in the Methodist Conference.

And Women Are Victorious.

Omaha, May 26—The most important item of business considered in the general conference at the forenoon session was the report of the committee on lay representation. The report recommended that the laymen should be given equal representation with the ministers in the general conferences of the future.

A determined effort was made by the ministers to defeat the adoption of the report, but it was carried by a vote of 143 laymen for 11 laymen against, and 198 ministers for to 108 ministers against.

After a recess, the regular order was taken up, being the report of the committee on deacons' work. The committee recommended that the deaconess order be a continuous organization, incorporated under the laws of the various states. A minority of the committee submitted a report protesting against the organization of the grounds that the Woman's Home Missionary society covers the ground.

M.S. Hard moved to lay the matter on the table, and it was almost unanimously carried.

GRAND ISLAND & HALL COUNTY NEWS.

There will be a young men's social at the first M. E. church Saturday evening. A literary program will be read followed by refreshments. What is it that we hear so little of our bicycle club? The roads will be in rideable condition in a few days and it is about time that some interest is manifested in this healthful sport.

Nebraska food products should be given first place in every household. The beautiful souvenir program for Memorial Day, which is to be used in decorating soldiers' graves, will be issued yesterday and today:

A grand good time will be enjoyed today and tomorrow in Lincoln on the occasion of the Silver anniversary celebration.

A grand ball will be given by the Otseco Co. at Han's park, the evening of May 30th. Don't miss it.

One of the finest awnings in the city of Grand Island has just been put up on Wolbach's store. It represents a U.S. flag.

The G.A.R. boys visited the cemetery in force yesterday, and marked and prepared the graves for decoration day.

Anyone wishing to donate flowers to be used in decorating soldiers' graves will please take them to the G.A.R. hall by eight o'clock Monday morning.
The ladies of the Immanuel Baptist church in Grand Island will give a musical and literary entertainment in the auditorium of the church June 2nd. A special feature of the evening will be a Live Doll exhibition. Watch for further notices.

The social of the Lutheran society at the residence of H. T. Jul. Fuchsmann was a complete success. A very fine program was rendered and Mr. E. in character of the German Professor added much to the merriment. All felt that another success was scored in the way of Luther society socials.

The marriage of Miss Emma Aye to Mr. Hermann Hebnke took place Thursday evening at the residence of the groom’s parents. Only the relations and the most intimate friends of the contracting parties were present.

The Parker Bros. shoot for a $65 hammerless Parker gun was won by J. R. Elliott of Kansas City. The Champion Team Gold Medal, was won by Parmalee and Kennedy representing Omaha. The shoot closed this afternoon with a citizen shoot, open only to citizens of Grand Island.

The injunction case of the Grand Island Banking Company against J. A. Costello and others which has occupied the attention of the District court for the past few days was finished Saturday night as far as testimony and submission of arguments were concerned. The court has as yet not rendered a decision.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the St. Joseph & Grand Island Railroad Company, for the choice of directors for the ensuing year and the transaction of such other business as may legally come before the meeting, will be held at the office of said company, in Elwood, Kansas on Tuesday.

The Sunday school convention was well attended and successful in interest and enthusiasm. Many delegates were present from Doniphan, Wood River, and Cairo. Some very interesting papers were read on Sunday school work and the vest methods to be employed in furthering the work.

The ladies of Trinity M. E. church will hold a bazaar this week at Williams & Kerr building. They have a nice lot of fancy and useful articles which will be offered for sale. The bazaar will be open on the afternoon and evening.

The St. Joe & Grand Island morning train now runs daily bringing Omaha and Lincoln papers every morning, instead of six mornings per week as heretofore, connecting with the B. & M. flyer at Hastings. The change is appreciated by Grand Island people.

Mr. Harry Gassaway of Omaha and Miss Mary Dunphy of this city were married last Saturday afternoon at St. Philomene church in Omaha. Rev. P. F. McCarthy officiated. The young couple will make their future home in Omaha.

Miss Anderson at Amanda Glade Millinery experienced an exceptional run on hats last week, with no less than 12 pairs they would like to accomplish in their future home in Omaha.

Miss Brittany Blaser has greatly saddened her friends with the news that she will be relocating to a Kansas over the course of this summer. Sadness quickly turned to joy when it was announced that she soon will become wed to Mr. Michael Schwartz.

Mr. Dudley and Mr. Damitz have been compiling a rather long list of repairs they would like to accomplish in Railroad Town this spring.

It is never to early to be thinking of the Fourth of July Celebration and the committee have things well in hand. They are once again planning to have a cherry pie eating contest.
